Valuable Property

FOR SALE.

One Tract of about 1,100 acres of land within six miles of Alexandria, on which are a good Grist Mill with two pair of stones in good order; a Distillery with three stills and a boiler, the house has lately been enlarged and put in complete order; a dwelling house with two rooms on the first and four on the second floor; an excellent ice-house, wash-house and kitchen, all almost new and in good order; a large barn and stable almost new; several out houses for the miller, distiller and work people, corn house, smoke house, spring house, and fowl's houses, and a very good garden. There are about 2500 fruit trees on the land, all of the choicest fruits America can afford, and we will venture to say that there is not a better collection in Virginia; about sixty acres of the land are in meadow, and about 700 acres in woods, and most of it thickly timbered, particularly the bottom land, of which there are about 400 acres, exclusive of the meadow.

One other tract of land about 12 miles from Alexandria, and adjoining on the fourth side of Ravensworth, containing about 170 acres. This land is well situated for farming; there is a framed dwelling house on it, with two rooms on the first and two on the second floor.

One other Tract about five miles from Alexandria, near the turnpike road and the land of Mr. Charles Lee, occupied by Mr. Kendall, containing 80 acres and most of it in woods. The only improvement on this land is a pretty good log house.

Lots in Alexandria.

That Lot of Ground on which the bake house and dwelling house stand, at present occupied by Mr. Andrew Jamieson.

The Lot adjoining the bake house lot, on which the tobacco warehouses stand.

A large Lot opposite the tobacco warehouses, on which are two small framed dwelling houses and a carriage house.

A Lot on the north west corner of Queen and St. Asaph streets, containing 60 odd feet on Queen street and about 100 feet on St. Asaph street.

A Lot on the east side of Washington street, near Queen street, containing on Washington street 63 feet, and in depth 170 odd feet, with the benefit of an alley of 10 feet 6 inches, running the whole distance on the fourth side and east end of the lot.

Lands in the Western Country.

One Tract of 1,675 acres, one of 2,000 acres, and one of 5,000 acres in Randolph, formerly Harrison county, Virginia, equal in quality to most of the lands in that county. One tract in Kenhawa, formerly Montgomery county, on Mud river, containing about 5,000 acres; this land is about 40 miles below the mouth of Great Kenhawa, and about 6 miles from the Ohio river, is almost all bottom land and equal in quality to any land in that county, and navigable within two miles of the land.

One Tract of 400 acres on Copitalico creek, which empties into the Great Kenhawa, said to be very valuable.

The following official defence of the French government, from a Paris paper of October last, against the English Editors of the time, was probably intended to prepare the minds of the French people for an unsuccessful issue of negociations then on the carpet, and corresponds well enough with an article lately published, under the London head, alluding to the orders which must have been given about that time for the retention of the Cape of Good Hope, as well as with the more recent change at New Orleans.]

(Balt. Fed. Gaz.)

From the Paris official paper, of Oct. 30, 1802, [translated for the Federal Gazette.]

There is a party of the English journalists who are using every method to raise a division—every line they print is a line of blood. They are anxious to stir up a civil war in the bosom of the western nation, which is now happily at peace. All their arguments may be summed up under the two following heads; 1st, Making imaginary complaints against France; and 2dly, creating allies very liberally, and endeavoring to impose their sentiments on the great powers of Europe.

Their principal complaints now, are the affairs of Switzerland, whose happy issue has excited their furious jealousy. It seems that they would have been much better pleased to see that unfortunate country a prey to civil war, in order that the harmony of Europe might be thereby interrupted. But the proclamation of the 10th Vendémiaire has given a death blow to their expectations.

They appeal to the treaty of Luneville, which secures the independence of the Helvetic republic; but this treaty declares unequivocally that the interposition of France is indispensable. Now, of all the European powers, England has, in this respect, the least right to appeal to the treaty of Luneville; because she alone has refused to acknowledge the Helvetic republic. She has also refused to acknowledge the Italian republic, the Ligurian (or Genoese) republic, and the King of Tuscany. She has not only been obstinate in this respect, but it is well known that, in spite of the lively representations of the French government, she has refused to agree to the continental arrangements stipulated by the treaty of Luneville. England has no diplomatic agents at Bern, Milan, Geneva or Florence.

The English government, cannot therefore, with propriety, complain of what happens in countries whose political existence they deny, or with which they hold no public relations.

The affairs of Germany seem also to excite very strongly the jealousy of these periodical scribblers; and the resolute and generous conduct of France and Russia, for which they deserved the thanks of every man, of every city, and of every prince in Germany, is to these disturbers of Europe, a source of much malignant animadversion.

The King of England has acknowledged all the arrangements in Germany, and he has adhered to them. To be certain of this, it is only necessary to read the vote of his minister at the diet of Ratifbon; The British cabinet, likewise satisfied at seeing its interests well managed, has, in this respect, not the smallest ground of complaint.

But, says the English libelists, the vote expressed by the king of England as elector of Hanover, is not the vote of the English nation! But in what other capacity has an insular power a right to meddle in the affairs of Germany? and to what an abject situation would Russia, Austria, Prussia, Sweden, Denmark, Bavaria, and the house of Wurtemberg, Baden, Hesse, Cassel, &c. and the French republic be reduced, if they could not negotiate, conclude and arrange their mutual interests without the agreement of a power which has no more to do with these interests than with our diplomatic concerns! A power too, which, at sea, treats with contempt the rights of independent nations! The relations which exist between France and England were established by the treaty of Amiens, exist in the treaty of Amiens, and go no further than the treaty of Amiens.

The allies which the party scribblers in London have formed on the continent, as well as their numerous complaints, are happily confined to their own disordered imagination, and to the fretful and jealous dispositions with which they are tormented. They wish to entice the Austrian troops by specious arguments; they wish to form armies in Tyrol: but alas!

Thugut is no more! and S. M. [his majesty] the emperor well knows, that if the Austrian power, was twice conducted to the borders of a frightful precipice, it was because they were twice lead by these peditions instigators.

The court of Vienna, far from wishing to shed the blood of its subjects, which is so dear to it, is daily diminishing its expenses, in order to pay faithfully for the subsidies, which it received from England during the first campaign. That court instead of paying the English for those subsidies (which were spent in its cause) might in justice demand five or six hundred million from that government as an indemnity for the expenses last war. About the middle of last century, Kaunitz observed to the minister of the king of Prussia, who was taking his audience of departure, "the king your master will one day find how expensive an alliance with England is."
And if Prussia did not fall when its frontiers were overrun, and its capital was besieged, it was entirely owing to a prince of glorious memory, and his army, who will be long held up as models worthy of imitation.

The editors of these seditious papers are also making great attempts to rouse the Russian soldiers; but have these soldiers forgotten that when they were abandoned in the marshes of Holland, they were disowned by England—who, contrary to the rights of nations, did not wish to commend them in the exchange of prisoners?
And will not the Russians, the Swedes and the Danes long keep in remembrance the bloody massacres at Copenhagen?

Certain it is, and the powers of the continent are fully convinced of it that peace is the greatest of all blessings, and that it is, at the same time their dearest interest.
They know full well that a war on the continent would have no other effect than to concentrate all the riches of commerce into the hands of a single nation, and bring all the colonies in the world under its subjection.

Russia [and] France, united by recipi-cal esteem, by common interests, and by a sincere desire to maintain continental peace, will punish those restless beings who fill the English newspapers with political abuse, if ever their libels should cause that wise minister to be replaced who governed Great Britain.

Let any one mention a single continental power for a hundred years past, which has withdrawn from a political alliance with the other continental powers, and has not justified that profound observation of M. de Kaunitz.

If the king of the Two Sicilies has twice seen his frontiers and capital in the possession of the French—if the elector of Bavaria has twice witnessed the same scene in his states—if the king of Sardinia has lost Savoy and Piedmont—if the house of Orange has lost the Stadtholdership—if the Oligarchies of Berne and Genoa have beheld their influence vanish—and if Portugal has seen soldiers on its borders ready to conquer the country—was it not all owing to their alliance with England?

The peace of Europe is solidly established, and no cabinet, undoubtedly, wishes to disturb it; but if it should happen that a few peevish individuals, enemies to man and to the tranquility of the world, should obtain any influence in the British cabinet, they will be the cause of interrupting that felicity and mutual harmony, which they have a right to expect in a state of peace, and in the relations which they at present bear to each other.

In fine, the French people are not ignorant that these editors have excited a great deal of jealousy by their inflammatory publications, and that they are using every endeavor to foment foreign and domestic commotions: so that it behoves them constantly to keep in that attitude in which the Athenians placed Minerva, viz.—With the helmet on her head and the lance in her hand. By this means nothing will be ever gained from them by warlike preparations or menacing postures; for fear has no place in the hearts of the brave!

BOSTON, May 6.

From the Mediterranean,

LATE AND AUTHENTIC.

In the ship Perseverance, which arrived yesterday from Leghorn and Gibraltar, William Eaton, Esq., our Consul for the city and kingdom of Tunis, came passenger, and will immediately proceed to the seat of government. Doctor George Davis, of New York, is left charged with affairs.

"As late as the 1st of April Malta was not evacuated by the English; nor any apparent movements to that effect.
It was said that transports were gone to bring off the British garrison from Alexandria; but, it is thought, more probably to provision them.

"In consequence of the late mutiny at Gibraltar, the Duke of Kent was about to return to England, and the garrison to be relieved.

"The French government has finally adjusted all misunderstandings with the regency of Algiers, by a general accession to the Dey's terms. Conjecture says, that Talleyrand has touched a douceur from the Jews Boeri and Buihah, and consequently persuaded his young master into a decision on which he had long balanced between commercial policy and private ambition.
Bonaparte might, indeed, have added one more sprig to the laurels which already cloud his brow, by annexing the "Potent Dey" to the catalogue of his slaves and might have done something handsome for the pockets of the Consuls. But the arch bishop is of opinion, that it would be killing the goose for an egg—that an Algiers in adversity would be ultimately of more utility to the French Republic, and, of course, to their sovereign, than an Algiers in ruins—and that notwithstanding all the saferade displayed on the subject, his practical highness ought to be secure in the friendship of the First Consul!
Consequently that chief of brigands will have nothing the ensuing season to check his depredations on whatever tributary nation avidity shall direct his outrage, whose delinquency may furnish him with a pretext.

"The Dey positively refuses to receive Mr. Cathcart as Consul for the United States; and as decidedly rejects cash in lieu of the naval Rores, in payment of the annual tribute for the last and present year.
According to the statement of Mr. O'Brien there will be an arrearage due that regency, on the 5th Sept. next, of 124,073 dollars; it being the tribute and contingencies of two years; including 30,000 dollars, estimated consular present, and 6,500 dollars, ransom of the master & four seamen of the brig Franklin, from the Bashaw of Tripoli, thro' the intervention of Algiers.

"The Bey of Tunis requires, and is resolved to have, a demonstration of the real friendship of the President of the United States, a good frigate of thirty-six guns; and sundry articles of smaller consideration, which he has signified to the government. He affects a right of free intercourse with Tripoli, in contempt of an actual blockade, and declares his determination to hold the United States unac-countable for all infractions of this assumed right. He has congeed Mr. Eaton, because, he says, he must have an American Consul with a disposition more congenial to the Barbary interests. Or, in the language of his Minister, more pliable a bit viewers. This chief is endeavoring to negotiate a peace with Portugal, with a view of giving his corsairs a greater range by passing them into the Atlantic. It is yet uncertain which of his loyal friends, the Danes, Swedes or Americans, will be designated as their prey.

"The Bashaw of Tripoli, now at peace with all the rest of the world, treats with contempt the overtures of pacification proposed to him in writing by Mr. Cathcart on the part of the United States, in conformity to instructions from the Department of State. The notion of peace without paying is a solecism in Barbary. It is impossible, however, yet to determine what influence the appearance of Commodore Morris will have on the resolutions of this petty pirate, as none of his frigates has hitherto been seen before Tripoli.

Citizens of the United States! Your Barbary lords assume a majestic tone with you; and, except you take an attitude with them a little more worthy of yourself, to the common curse of the "fall" they will soon add, "By the sweat of your brows ye shall support your dishonour and our infidelity!" Is it not already the language of their behaviour?"

NEW YORK, May 11.

The captain of the French schooner Le Pere Cherie confirms the intelligence we published lately, that the brigands had burnt all the plantations in the plain of Aux Cayes, and had furnished the town.

He also informs that 3 or 4 days before, a French ship of war for part of the coast, and took 40 brigands and boats went down the river of Gouale, within two miles of Aux Cayes, where they killed twenty men, took all the women prisoners, and carried whatever property they could find.
The 10th two days after leaving Aux Ca few at a distance Ansedon on fire; a few time saw two French men of war, and two frigates, one of which ran the coast, and fired at the brigands.
The town of Aquia was burnt down.

which was closely besieged. Buis-

He also informs that 3 or 4 days before he failed, a French sloop of war secured part of the coasts, and took 40 brigand boats. On the 4th April a small fleet of brigand boats went down the river to Gros Goille, within two miles of Aquin, where they killed twenty men, took all the women prisoners, and carried off whatever property they could find. On the 10th two days after leaving Aux Cayes saw at a distance Ansedon on fire; at the same time saw two French men of war and two frigates, one of which ran along the coast, and fired at the brigands. The town of Aquin was burnt down; the French troops kept possession of the fort, which was closely besieged. Business ve-

SATURDAY, MAY 14.
The captain of the sloop Robert, arrived at Baltimore in 42 days from Gibraltar, informs that when he left that place, the United States frigates Chesapeake, Adams, John Adams, and New York, and the sloop Enterprise were there taking in provisions. The Chesapeake was to sail for America in a few days—the rest were bound up the Straits.

Latest from France.—Capt. Godden, arrived at New York from Bordeaux, left that place on the 29th of March. He confirms the news already received, that preparations were making in the French ports for war. But, we have information by this arrival which deserves more consideration.
We have seen a letter from Bordeaux, from the first house there of the 26th of March, to a respectable merchant of this city (N. Y.) This letter states, that that day an express arrived from Paris—a letter by this courier dated at Paris the 24th of March, to a gentleman in office at Bordeaux, observed, "That a continuance of Peace was certain." Two days before this, the writer of this letter expressed an opinion to his correspondent in this city, that war was inevitable.
N. Y. Gaz.

A respectable friend favored us yesterday morning with the following very important intelligence, which he had just received from his correspondent at Salem under date of May 6th, at noon:—
"About an hour since we have heard the news of a declaration of WAR by England against France. A Newbury-port vessel from the West Indies, spoke 4 days since, the British packet bound to New York, the captain of which said WAR was actually declared before he left England, (1st of April,) and that 70 fail of the line were in commission. You will undoubtedly know it before this letter reaches you, except the Packet has a very bad chance of winds."
Mer. Adv.

Extract of a letter from Madrid, dated February 26.
"It is asserted that a new line of demarcation of the frontiers, between this country and France will soon take place, on which occasion we expect our Court will cede a certain part of Territory to the French Government."

On Monday the 18th ult. the following resolution was introduced into the legislature of the state of Georgia, and has probably passed.
"On motion—
"Resolved, That this legislature reposes perfect confidence in the president of the United States. That bound in duty, and by a common interest to support the federal government, to participate in all its destinies, to cherish a pacific spirit in the administration as essential to the prosperity of a rising country, this legislature views with serious concern, the late infraction of the treaty of San Lorenzo el Real, and hereby pledge the resources of Georgia for the vindication of our national honor, and the recovery of our rights wrongfully withheld by Spain.
"That the possession and settlement of Louisiana by France but more particularly the contemplated settlement of East and West Florida by the same nation, are causes of serious alarm to this good people of this commonwealth, who occupy a frontier of the United States, cultivating the arts of peace and whose territory will be exposed to enterprising and ambitious neighbors: The legislature has confidence that such measures will be adopted by the general government as are best calculated to maintain the peace and integrity of Georgia."

[ANOTHER MURDER!]
On the 20th of March, doctor James Wier, son of Mr. Samuel Wier, of Harrinburgh, was unfortunately killed in a duel at the Natchez, by one Francis Ser-gent. While our feelings are naturally alive in sympathizing with an afflicted parent in his bereavement, of a favorite, of an amiable child, we cannot but join with the unfashionable in declaring our abhorrence to this detestable, tho' prevalent notion of honor: We lament that so promising a young man as doctor Wier, was deprived of the presence of some real friend to snatch him from so barbarous an employment; an employment so uncongenial both to his words and actions; for all who were acquainted with the deceased, will not hesitate to assert, that in amiable and engaging manners, in exemplary conduct, both social and moral, he was surpassed by few.

How unfortunate, then that such a character should have been persuaded to become the victim of so barbarous a custom!
But what is this custom? Why a very club of desperadoes, without religion, without conscience, a pack of renegade christians, who are a scandal to their profession, and a shame to their nature, vote murder a genteel action: and so it becomes the standard of honor and bravery!
Such mens judgments are as false as their principles, and their opinions as depraved as their manner; As well might they declare, because rascals extol perjury, high-waymen robbery, and debauchees lewd-ness, that these are credible and innocent vocations. Besides, can any thing be more extravagantly foolish, than the punctilio of a duellist? One has given me the lie; to wipe off the affront, I must provoke him to tilt at my lungs, or pistol me to the heart! Ah, but right stands for you! But what if fortune stands for your antagonist? Right is a dull weapon, unless skill and good luck manage it.

Thirty Dollars Reward.
STOLEN from the subscriber, in the City of Washington, on Monday evening last, the 21st inst. a handsome, well made, dark sorrel Mare, with a saddle and bridle: The mare is about 14½ hands high, about 6 years old, has a small white spot behind the right ear under the bridle, some white upon one of der hind legs. A man (with evident signs of guilt) crossed George Town Ferry and rode off post haste, and was traced near Colchester the same evening.

The above reward will be given on delivery of the mare and thief, or Fifteen Dollars for the mare.

In the matter of James Gillies,
A BANKRUPT,

Adjournd Meeting for Dividend.
THE Commissioners named and authorized, in and by a Commission of Bankruptcy awarded and issued forth against James Gillies, of the town of Alexandria, having met on Wednesday the 20th inst. pursuant to notice heretofore given, for the purpose of making a dividend of the estate and effects of the said Bankrupt, but for reasons suggested by a principal creditor who attended, it appearing expedient that the said meeting should be adjourned to a future day - The Commissioners do accordingly adjourn said meeting until Friday the 20th day of May next, at nine o'clock, A. M. to be then held at the house of Mr. Peter Heiskell, at which time and place the said commissioners will attend, of which all parties interested will please to take notice.

JOHN M'IVER,
Assignee.
